

Regional Anaesthesia Workshop

Regional Anaesthesia Workshop

Saturday July 31st 2010

The University of Adelaide Discipline of Anaesthesia invites you to attend RAW 2010, a single day workshop on regional anaesthesia. Utilising prosections developed specifically for this workshop, fresh unembalmed whole cadavers for needle practice under ultrasound guidance and live models, clinicians skilled in regional blocks will discuss a variety of local anaesthesia techniques. The relevant anatomical landmarks for non-ultrasound-based blocks will be featured and basic and advanced training in the use of ultrasound will be provided. Tips, procedures and tools for single shot and continuous blocks will be presented.

Time: 0730 – 1800

Venue: Anatomy Department, University of Adelaide Medical School, Frome Road, Adelaide.

Programme: Regional block topics to be covered include:

- Basic Ultrasound
- Brachial Plexus ~ interscalene, supraclavicular, infraclavicular, axillary.
- Wrist, forearm & elbow.
- Lumbar Plexus ~ femoral, lateral femoral cutaneous, saphenous.
- Sciatic Plexus ~ various approaches.
- Ankle.
- Abdomen ~ TAP, rectus sheath.
- Free practice on cadavers (with needles & catheters) and live models (no needles).
